Creative Brief

James Fawcett
11/9/2016

Project Title: Muhammad Ali Website

1. Project overview

The goal of my website is to display the basics of Norman Rockwell's life and career. I want to make sure to show a lot of his art. I want it to be very career-focused.

2. Resources

Copy is available at https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Norman_Rockwell, as well as some photography. There are a lot of other photographs of artworks available on Google Images as well.

3. Audience

The audience is really anyone who is interested in Norman Rockwell or his art, specifically his professional side. I want it to function similarly to the wikipedia page, but be a little bit more focused on his art. I want to include a gallery like tab or something like that, where you can scroll through a lot of his stuff.

4. Message

I don't think the page needs to say anything special, it can just be informational, and act as a hub for images of his artwork.

5. Tone

I want the tone to be very clean and simple, like a museum gallery.

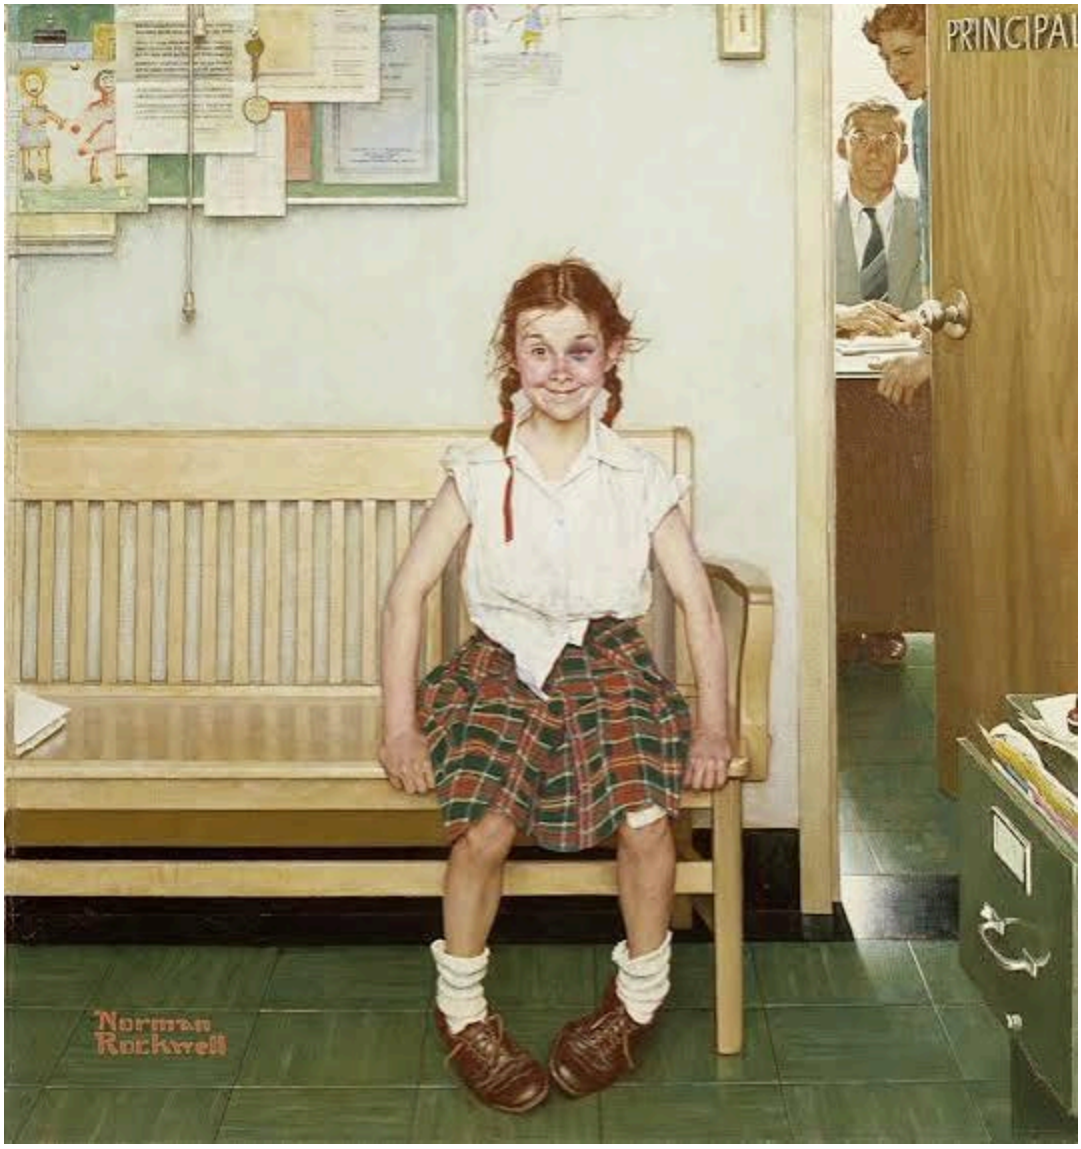

6. Visual Style

Museumlike visual style, but not so cold. I want to use warmer tones. Off whites, warm browns, red, and black. I want to use aspects of his work like the signature two lines and you see a lot, and steal typography from his saturday evening post covers. I want it to seem like a portfolio of works as well.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST
An Illustrated Weekly
APR. 26, '19
5cts.
Norman Rockwell
MORE THAN TWO MILLION A WEEK

THE SATURDAY
MAY 19, 1934
5c. the Copy
GARET GARRETT · ALICE DUER MILLER · WALTER EDMONDS

PRINCIPA
Norman
Rockwell